

WORKSHOP 5

Asking to have a place

Dear parents,

I was very happy to see Minipally again today. You know, he's a bit like me. In his family too, there are designated places for his mommy, his daddy, his brother or sister, and a place for him at the table or in the living room. He likes to choose a place to sit, next to his mommy or his daddy, or his teacher. So he points to the place and asks ("mine", "want", "place"). Sometimes I need your help to know how to get a place, but you know me so well! You know that when I stare at a place silently, or when I stand next to or sometimes shout next to a place someone is sitting in, it's because I would like to sit in that place.
